ENCLOSURE (1)
Ch 1

MAR 07 2006

(4) Certain large-scale conservation management activities will be required to be scheduled before occupying a training sector and will cause closure of training sectors that would otherwise be open to hunting. Those conservation management activities that will be scheduled include: logging, planting trees, extensive surveys by contractors, borrow pit restoration, and landing zone restoration. When scheduled conservation management activities cause closure of a training sector to hunting, the Chief CLEO, if authorizing hunting in that sector, will then develop a plan to de-conflict both activities in the training sector prior to authorizing hunting in that sector. An example of this would be when logging is scheduled in a training area, and Chief CLEO has determined to authorize hunting in that area, the Chief CLEO would develop a de-confliction plan to allow safe hunting simultaneously with logging. The Chief CLEO will consider the hunting weapons and ammunition used, species being hunted, seasons that are open, nature of the conservation management activity, and comfort level of workers. The CLEO Office will identify these openings as "Special Considerations Openings" and will make hunters aware of the activity in the training sector and the requirements, and notify conservation personnel of the hunting in the training sector. In no case shall hunting take place within three tenths of one mile of the scheduled activity. It shall be incumbent upon the hunter to ensure that they remain a minimum 0.3 miles from the activity. This authorization does not obligate the Chief CLEO to open an area. If the Chief CLEO makes the decision to open the area he assumes responsibility for enforcing the safe separation of the conservation management activity and hunters. The CLEO Office is responsible for notifying Range Control Office of the decision to de-conflict the training area and provide de-confliction plan details to the Range Control Office. The CLEO Office is responsible for determining if the conservation activity will be conducted on weekends and holidays prior to releasing hunters into those areas affected. Nothing in this section alters the requirements in sections 1g(3)(i) and 2f(3).

g. Area Clearance for Hunting

(1) Each person, including sponsors, huntmasters, and doghandlers for organized hunts, will be responsible for obtaining clearance (check in) from the Base CLEO prior to going into the field. (Check in refers to reporting to obtain clearance to go afield. Check out refers to reporting to terminate clearance or end of trip afield). Only licensed persons or family members under age 13 whose accompanying parents or guardians have executed enclosure (5) will be allowed clearance to hunting areas. All persons allowed clearance to hunting areas are required to adhere to all hunting and safety regulations. The "Buddy System" is encouraged when individual hunting in case one hunter becomes injured or lost, the other can find help. Hunters checking in without a partner should be prepared to give the CLEO an accurate six-digit grid of his hunting position.

ENCLOSURE (1)

(2) Hunter check stations will be used for assigning hunters to hunting areas. Each hunter must receive area clearance from one of the three following check stations:

- (a) Bldg PT-3, Parachute Tower Road;
- (b) Verona Loop Check Station;
- (c) Bldg CG-1, Robert Wilson Blvd, MCAS, New River or;
- (d) From remote sites electronically when permissible prior to going into the field to individually hunt.

Contingent upon hunter density and area availability except during deer season, hunters may be authorized to obtain a range clearance pass, upon request, for more than one area per day to hunt small game and turkey. This pass must be displayed on the vehicle's dashboard while hunting and will be returned to the appropriate check station immediately upon completion of that day's hunting. Failure to return the pass within one and one-half hours after sunset on the day for which the pass was issued will result in the automatic surrender of Base hunting license to the Base CLEO for three days upon first offense and seven days upon second offense when no search for the hunter was necessary. Third offense, or when a search was necessary is a mandatory appearance before the Conservation Hearings Officer.

(3) To administer hunting activities effectively the Base is divided into four major gun hunting areas and six smaller bow and arrow hunting areas. Deer Management Units exist within the bow and arrow areas and are administered by seasonal Base Bulletins. Hunting/restricted areas are listed below:

- (a) Area One is composed of Training Sectors R, F, G, and Q, excluding all built-up areas including towers, G-10 and N-1 / BT-3 buffer areas, and impact areas. The area north of a line from 960345 to 973340 thence to 977345 in training sector GI may be hunted.
